SPRING 2027 | VIRTUAL

New Assistant Principal Series

Help your APs turn teacher feedback into changes in classroom practice.

Assistant principals need time to prepare useful feedback, practice coaching, and follow through with teachers. However, finding that time alongside everything else they manage can be difficult. Growth MindED Consulting offers eight sessions to help leaders strengthen those routines using their own school's expectations.

Eight Fridays • March 12–April 30, 2027 • 1–2 p.m. Eastern

For APs in their first three years who observe and coach teachers. More experienced leaders are welcome when the session outcomes fit their needs.

The eight-session sequence

1–2 Set the coaching focus

Identify priorities, protect coaching time, and use observation data to choose a specific teacher goal.

3–4 Prepare and practice

Write feedback teachers can use, then practice modeling, coaching conversations, and teacher rehearsal.

5–6 Follow through

Review changes in teacher practice, adjust support, and address limited progress or disagreement.

7–8 Review and plan ahead

Prepare spring review conversations, examine your coaching practice, and plan next steps.

Practical materials. Practice with peers. Direct feedback.

Participants receive observation and feedback templates, coaching agendas, exemplars, and a follow-up tracker. Nicole provides feedback on a written coaching plan and a coaching rehearsal during the live sessions.

Meet Nicole Bryan
